2022 WVC Conference Welcomes More than 12,550 Attendees to the Veterinary Industry's Premier Event

The WVC 94th Annual Conference was a resounding success.

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA (March 22, 2022)— The WVC 94th Annual Conference, the veterinary industry's premier yearly event, hosted more than 12,550 attendees at Las Vegas' Mandalay Bay Convention Center, March 6-9. The conference, powered by Viticus Group, puts members of the veterinary profession in touch with the latest ideas and developments in veterinary science. Approximately 7,000 representatives of the veterinary community took advantage of hundreds of continuing education (CE) hours and interacted with colleagues and industry experts.

For nearly a century, WVC has offered top-quality CE for the veterinary community through a variety of learning formats, including hands-on labs, workshops, symposia, seminars, and lectures. This year's subject areas emphasized small animal, equine, food animal, avian and exotics, and practice management, with education tracks designed specifically for veterinarians, veterinary technicians, practice managers, and others. Participants also interacted with more than 423 exhibitors and had daily access to a series of bite-sized 20-minute learning sessions in the Exhibit Hall.

Attendees also enjoyed star-studded entertainment featuring a performance from Michael Jackson One by Cirque du Soleil; a concert by Country Music Association award winner Jimmie Allen; an evening of music and dancing provided by Las Vegas favorites DJG and the Marathon Band; and a return of WVC's popular Vet Detective scavenger hunt game for prizes.

The board of directors' election also took place during this year's WVC Conference. Dr. Dusty Nagy, Dr. Michael Jones, and Ms. Linda Markland were elected as new board members and Ms. Heather Prendergast was elected to the role of vice president.

"We are thrilled to have welcomed veterinary professionals from across the United States and the world to Las Vegas for the 2022 WVC Annual Conference," said Viticus Group CEO Andrea Davis. "It was also a great opportunity to show the veterinary community that WVC continues to grow and offer even more, despite the challenges of the past year. Industry-standard CE opportunities, the always-popular Exhibit Hall, as well as top-line entertainment and networking events made this year's conference a memorable experience."
